

VALUES EXCHANGE BULLETIN

1350 Connecticut Avenue N.W.
 Washington, D.C. 20036
 (202) 861-1350 / (202) 861-0860 Fax

Edition VII. / Volume II

Spring 2009

PRESIDENTIAL POINTS...

Values-Centered Schools	00:00	Schools
93	Period	4
		10

“April Madness” of testing is upon us! You have worked tirelessly in creating an environment where teachers, students, and parents understand, believing in, and act on the values as a way of life. Your consistency and Hard Work in utilizing the Seven Building Blocks of Principal Leadership will be the sole factor to providing your teachers, students, and parents with the NECESSARY fundamentals to becoming “Values Champions”.

“Only the Principals Hold the Keys” to creating a values champion, through their personal commitment, Hard Work and Courage in accepting the charge of leading their school through their own consistency and repetition.

Values-Centered schools create holistic environments that allow students, staff and parents to see the infusion of values as a way of life that is “Praised and Recognized.”

- Take time out to acknowledge, over the intercom, a values-centered behavior that a student demonstrated.
- Create activities where teachers can come together to share their creative ways on how they have infused values into their classroom. (i.e. choose a different teacher to host each staff development day.)
- Contact a teacher after school or on the weekend to “Praise and Recognize” them for a specific values-centered action.
- Contact a parent to share the values-centered behavior that their child demonstrated or improved upon throughout the year. (Letter or phone call)

Recognition: Certificates & Awards for their creativity and accomplishments with values.

